Affordable Legal Services opens in Buckner

Phil Gibson engages in the general practice of law, meaning that he does most of the things that are needed by folks in the towns in Eastern Jackson County. "The bulk of my practice over the last few years has been criminal law, including representing people accused of crimes and traffic problems in federal, state, and municipal court. I also do a lot of probate and estate planning work. I believe that everyone needs to give clear directions to their kids and other survivors about what their wishes are in the event of a serious illness or their death. That means having a will and a medical directive. My goal is to make legal services affordable for the people who live in this area."

Over the years, he has practiced in Kansas City and in the big suburbs. But when he first went to law school, he envisioned having a practice in Buckner someday. "It's where I grew up. I went to school at Buckner, Levasy, and Fort Osage and still live north of the high school with my wife, Jill. We like living in the country with our two dogs and four cats. It's nice to be able to have hummingbirds at our backyard feeders and hear owls in the woods nearby." Welcome to Buckner!

Retiring in style

Buckner School Principal Patrick Farnan celebrated his retirement by leaving in style!

Patrick always wanted to leave riding on a tractor and that wish was honored on his last day of School on June 30, 2014. Lead tractor driven by Tim Mershon left the school and traveled west on 24 highway past the town, the middle and high schools. Individuals were lined up to honor this wonderful man!

The procession was followed by 20 plus tractors all in honor of Patrick. The Buckner Police Department was on hand to handle traffic control and the FOFPD were also present to wish him good luck!

Thank you for being a fantastic principal! Good Luck!

"The Little Village in the Valley"

Submitted by Brent Lasater

Longtime residents of Buckner may remember how Buckner got this picturesque nickname. It was the late 1950's and Buckner was home to a small family run car dealership named Lasater Ford. The Lasater boys, as they were called, advertised their dealership over the radio throughout the Kansas City area telling people to come to the "Little Village in the Valley" to buy a car. The nickname stuck. One of the "Lasater Boys" was Jene Lasater, father of Brent Lasater. Fast forward to 2010 when Brent Lasater, a truck driver for 30 years, was elected State Representative with a common sense campaign that spent 500.00 dollars compared to the 30,000.00 raised by his opponent. Carrying on the Lasater tradition of serving the area, Representative Brent Lasater, gave constituents his cell phone number, helped sand bag during the flooding of 2011, and successfully got House Bill 749 passed raising awareness for child abuse prevention. Brent Lasater has deep roots in the Eastern Jackson County Area and desires to continue to serve with a commitment to preserve the Constitution that made this County great, even if it means going against the "establishment".

Bambi's Story

by Carla Gilbert

Hi. My name is Bambi. I am a very fortunate seven year old Toy Fox Terrier that found a forever home. My Mom saw me on the internet when I was 10 months old. She spoke to the animal shelter that I was staying at and made arrangements to come and see me and what do you know she wanted me. Of course I am beautiful, smart and all those other good adjectives – I'm a girl what do you expect? I was not very fond of Dad when I first came here but he eventually won me over with all those treats and feeding me from his dinner plate much to my mom's displeasure. I played him right? I had a little buddy (a rat terrier) when I came to this new home. He had the biggest box of toys you ever saw. He showed me how to clean out the box and spread them around so that mom got the exercise she needed picking them up. He also showed me how to rearrange all the throw pillows in the house. Mom needed more to do and I liked rearranging the house to my design. Dad was very ill and passed three months after I came. One time when I was very young I got a hold of my mom's brand new glasses. I readjusted them quite well – really well - had to get a new pair. Did I say I did this twice. She was not happy with me at all. But the best one was when I got a hold of Dad's billfold and took EVERYTHING out including the paper money of which I sort of tore up. I gave George Washington a real fight and he lost. I really thought Mom was going to give me away or kill me whichever one came first. Of course there were shoes and other objects that I put my teeth signature on. Then I got a new buddy. A Min Pen (Bob), he and I used to play together while mom worked at her job. She finally talked his dad into letting him come to our house to live. Then one day mom brought home this Jack Russell (Baby – another girl). She is a real momma's baby. She and I have had our disagreements. I will say she is pretty laid back and easy going but don't push her too far – she does have a nasty side. I found out the hard way and of course I am number one so do you think I backed down? Well – she and I got into it one day and I do mean got into it. We had blood going everywhere and I ended up with a broken toe along with a few bite marks and had to wear a cast on my foot and leg for three weeks. Of course the first one they put on I took off in two days. The next one they put on was there for a while. Now when Baby and I get into it, Bob runs to his house and doesn't come out until it has been quiet for some time. He is not a fighter, but can be if pushed and is real nasty when that happens. I have become a very independent, organized oh yes still beautiful – did I say I had an ego? I am number one and don't forget it. I became Dad's buddy and stuck with him like glue. He had a lot of health issues and he and I spent a lot of time in the recliner.

He liked watching television as much as I do and I would sit beside him and that is how we spent the days. We watched Fox News and I could tell you exactly what was going on in the world every day. I love to watch television and love it when they have commercials that have dogs or cats in them. I always have to jump up to go and bark at them. One thing I don't understand though is how quickly they can disappear and I don't know where they go. I keep watching - maybe I'll figure it out yet. I am also the guard of the house. Don't ring the doorbell or knock on the door and lord help you if you just walk in. I am the first one there showing all my teeth and raised hair on my back. I am one mean machine. I don't allow anyone to come in and with the entire ruckus I get help from Bob. Baby just wants to lick them to death – me - well no licks. Mom has to put us in our crates. Dad told us that he didn't want any cats on our back patio so he let us chase them back to the barn. Mom does not approve of us chasing the cats and keeps a very watchful eye on us when we go outside. Of course we all sleep in their bed and all have a certain spot. Don't let anyone get our spots or the war is on. My dad passed away three months ago and I have missed him terribly. It has really been hard even though mom is great and I wouldn't trade her for anything I still miss my dad. He treated me like the royalty that I am and I always watched out for him. I could tell when he was not feeling good and paid special attention. Mom took me to his grave but it is still hard to realize I will never ever see him again. We have to remember to give love to our family and friends everyday as we never know how soon our life or theirs will come to the end. And when they are gone – they are gone forever. Also remember to help the animals in the shelters. They all need homes too, so if you are looking for a forever friend - adopt one from a shelter. You may be real lucky and get one like me. Everyone needs some excitement in their life.
